APPENDIX A-6

A-6 17.20.923 Electric Transmission-Lines, Reliability of Service

APPENDIX A-6

ARM 17.20.923 Electric Transmission Lines, Reliability of Service

Paragraph	Subject Matter	Response
(1)	For electric transmission lines where reliability of service is a basis of need, an application must contain the following:	Reliability of service is not the basis of need.
(1)(a)	the information required by ARM 17.20.922 (5) and (6);	N/A
(1)(b)	a description of the planning assumptions and rules by which the applicant attempts to maintain its desire level of generation and transmission reliability, and an explanation of the rationale for the selection of the desired level of reliability. To the extent this information as been provided in ARM 17.20.907, it need not be duplicated here.	N/A
(1)(c)	to the extent available 10 years historical line outage data in the area to be served by the proposed facility including the duration, location, and cause of the outage, the load lost, and the number and typed of customers affected, if known.	N/A